Early Life and Education

Stacey Yvonne Abrams was born on December 9, 1973, in Madison, Mississippi. Her parents, Carolyn and Robert Abrams Sr., were both ministers and civil rights activists. Abrams grew up in Gulfport, Mississippi, where she attended St. John's Episcopal School.

Abrams went on to earn a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies from Spelman College in Atlanta, Georgia. She then received a Juris Doctor degree from Yale Law School in 1999. While at Yale, she served as president of the Black Law Students Association.

Political Career

Abrams began her political career in 2006 when she was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives. She served in the House until 2017, during which time she rose to become the minority leader, the first woman to hold that position.

In 2018, Abrams ran for governor of Georgia. She lost the election to Republican Brian Kemp by a narrow margin. However, her campaign was widely praised for its focus on voter mobilization and expanding access to the ballot box.

After the 2018 election, Abrams founded Fair Fight Action, a non-profit organization dedicated to combating voter suppression and promoting fair elections. She has also been a vocal critic of the Republican-led efforts to restrict voting rights.

Voting Rights Activism

Abrams is a leading voice in the fight for voting rights. She has spoken out against voter suppression tactics such as voter ID laws, purging voter rolls, and closing polling places. She has also worked to expand access to the ballot box through early voting, same-day registration, and automatic voter registration.

In 2021, Abrams published a book entitled "Our Time Is Now: Power, Purpose, and the Fight for a Fair America." In the book, she shares her experiences as a voting rights activist and outlines her vision for a more just and equitable democracy.

Personal Life

Abrams is married to Larry Abrams, a tax attorney. They have two children, a son named Lars and a daughter named Maya.

Legacy

Stacey Abrams is a true leader for Georgia and beyond. Her unwavering commitment to voting rights and fair elections has made her a beacon of hope for those who believe in the power of democracy. She is an inspiration to all who aspire to make a difference in the world.

Get to Know Stacey Abrams Kids

Stacey Abrams' children, Lars and Maya, are both active in their community. Lars is a student at Morehouse College, where he is involved in student government and the debate team. Maya is a student at Spelman College, where she is active in the Model United Nations and the Black Student Union.

Both Lars and Maya have spoken out about the importance of voting rights and fair elections. They have also been involved in their mother's political campaigns.

Stacey Abrams is a remarkable woman who has made a significant impact on the political landscape of Georgia and the nation. Her commitment to voting rights and fair elections is an inspiration to all who believe in the power of democracy. Abrams is a true leader who is making a difference in the world.
