In the North Pole, George meets Santa Claus and learns about the Christmas traditions of the Arctic. He helps Santa load his sleigh with presents and watches as Santa takes off on his Christmas Eve journey. In the South Pole, George meets penguins and seals and learns about the Christmas traditions of the Antarctic. He helps the penguins build a snow fort and watches as the seals swim in the icy waters.

Along the way, George also learns about the Christmas traditions of many other countries. He visits a Christmas market in Germany, where he learns about the tradition of the Christmas tree. He attends a Christmas Eve service in a church in France, where he learns about the tradition of the Christmas carol. And he visits a Christmas party in Mexico, where he learns about the tradition of the piñata.
