Hannibal was born in Carthage in 247 BC. He was the son of Hamilcar Barca, a Carthaginian general who fought in the First Punic War. Hannibal grew up to be a brilliant military strategist and tactician. He was also a skilled diplomat and politician.

In 218 BC, Hannibal invaded Italy with an army of 26,000 men. He crossed the Alps in a daring move that caught the Romans by surprise. Hannibal's army then defeated the Romans at the battles of the Trebia, Lake Trasimene, and Cannae. These victories shocked the Romans and nearly brought about the destruction of their empire.

However, the Romans eventually rallied and defeated Hannibal at the Battle of Zama in 202 BC. Hannibal was forced to return to Carthage, where he served as a political leader until he was forced to flee into exile. He eventually committed suicide to avoid being captured by the Romans.

Hannibal is considered one of the greatest military strategists of all time. His tactics are still studied by military historians today. He was a brilliant commander who nearly brought about the destruction of the Roman Republic. Hannibal is a true military legend.
