From Antwerp to the World Stage

Lukaku's story begins in the vibrant city of Antwerp, Belgium, where he was born to Congolese parents. From a young age, he displayed an extraordinary talent for soccer, honing his skills on the streets and in local youth clubs.

As Lukaku's reputation grew, he caught the attention of scouts from some of Europe's top clubs. In 2009, he joined Chelsea, one of the most prestigious teams in the English Premier League. However, Lukaku's initial spell at Chelsea was marked by limited playing time.

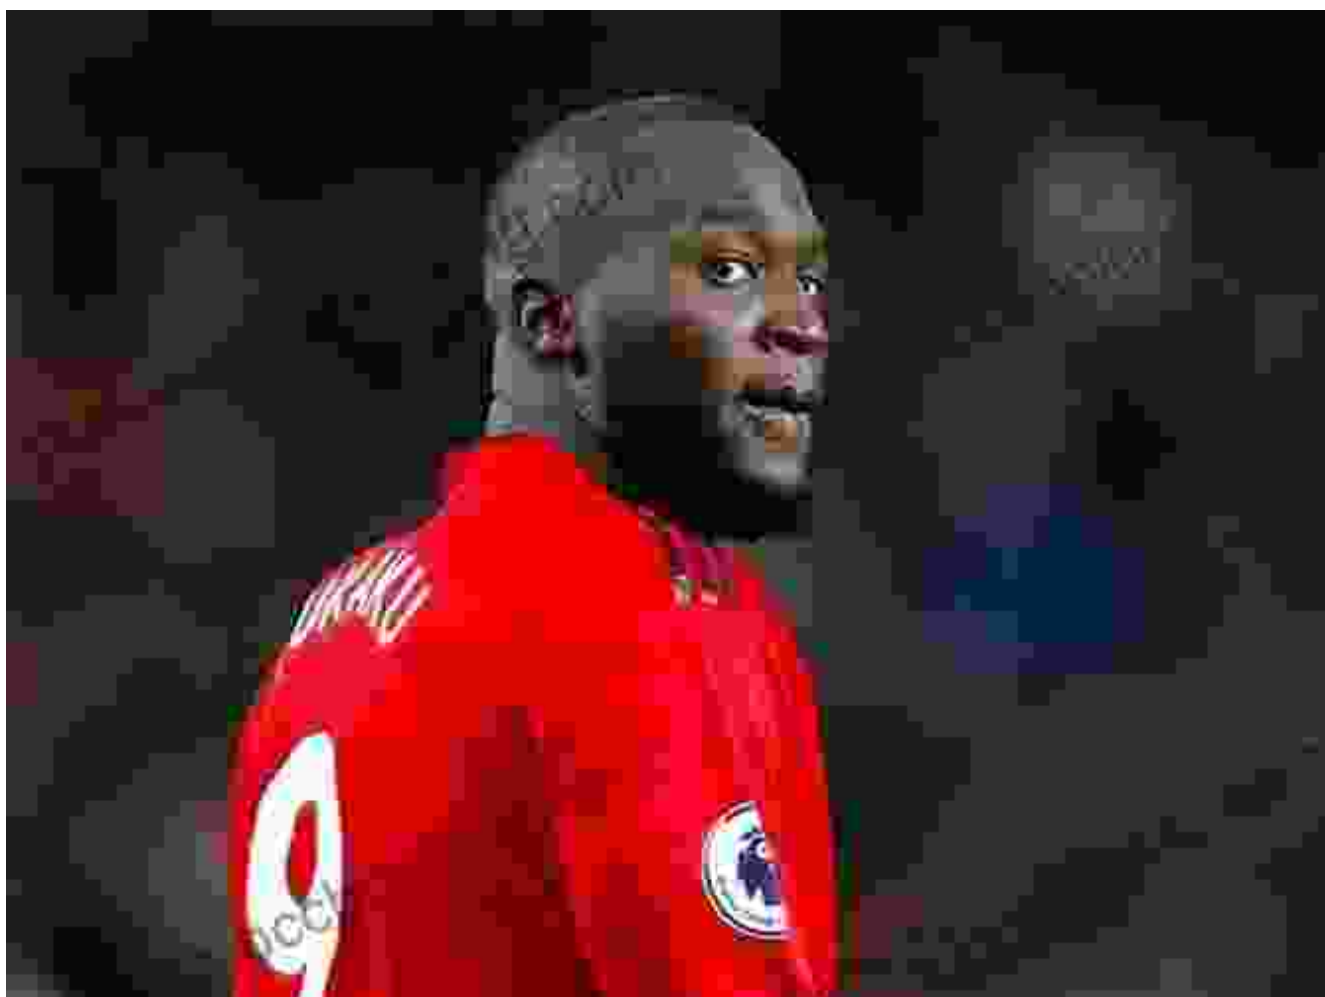

Overcoming Adversity

Undeterred by setbacks, Lukaku embarked on a series of loan spells at other clubs, including West Bromwich Albion and Everton. During this time, he continued to develop his skills and prove his worth as a prolific goal-scorer.

In 2017, Lukaku finally returned to Chelsea as a fully-fledged star. He quickly established himself as one of the team's key players, leading them to victory in the FA Cup. However, his second stint at Chelsea was once again cut short, this time due to a desire for more regular playing time.

Manchester United and Inter Milan

In 2019, Lukaku made a high-profile move to Manchester United, one of the biggest clubs in the world. He enjoyed a successful first season at Old Trafford, scoring 42 goals in all competitions. However, a change in management and a decline in form saw him fall out of favor.

In 2021, Lukaku joined Inter Milan, where he rediscovered his goalscoring touch. He led Inter to their first Serie A title in over a decade, earning the prestigious Capocannoniere award as the league's top scorer.

Return to Chelsea and Belgium

Despite his success at Inter, Lukaku made a surprise return to Chelsea in 2021. However, his second spell at Stamford Bridge was less successful than his first, and he was eventually loaned out to Inter Milan in 2023.

On the international stage, Lukaku has been a key player for the Belgium national team. He is Belgium's all-time leading goalscorer and has helped them achieve several notable successes, including a third-place finish at the 2018 FIFA World Cup.
