After graduating from high school, Davoli joined the United States Army. He served for two years and was stationed in Germany. After his military service, Davoli returned to New York City and began working as a salesman. He quickly rose through the ranks and became a top performer.

In 1972, Davoli founded his own business, Davoli Sales. The company quickly became a success and Davoli expanded his operations into other states. In 1985, he sold Davoli Sales to a Fortune 500 company.

After selling his business, Davoli retired and began to focus on his philanthropy. He has donated millions of dollars to various charities, including the American Red Cross, the United Way, and the Boys & Girls Clubs of America.
